Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

To attack is the best defense, according to military strategists. It accords with human instincts and it does usually strengthen defense. However, one should be careful in choice of weapons in either defense or attack, whether the war is international between peoples hysterically excited, or merely a political war for votes between candidates, for instance, in a senatorial district.

Last week it developed that one Edwin Beck, liquor enforcement officer in Placer county had been unduly active in promoting the candidacy of State Senator Jerry Seawell who seeks re-election. He was cited before the State Pernonnel Board by R. L. P. Bigelow, Democratic and opposing candidate. When the reporters called on Senator Seawell for his side of the story, as all good reporters do, he not only returned tit for tat, but he charged directly and impliedly that the entire local staff of the United States Forest Service, some fifty or sixty men, were engaged in campaigning for his opponent, Mr. Bigelow.

It was rather a large order for Senator Seawell. He did not cite author, chapter or verse. He used a scatter gun and plugged the whole Forest Service at once. "If Mr. Bigelow is going to be nasty," declared the senator, "I can lay a few cards on the table myself," or words to that effect, leaving the inference that he could be a shade nastier if he were forced to it. But when he had made his charge, to anyone who knows the personnel of the Forest Service, it did not seem nasty at all. It was merely silly.

The Forest Service, next to the mining industry in Placer, Nevada and Sierra counties, is the most important factor in their development. Year in and year out it fights against the hazards of fire, it builds roads, witness the beautiful Yuba Pass and Rim of the Lake roads. It constructs bridges, fire trails, motor trails, fire breaks. It makes the mountains accessible to mining, recreation and grazing. It is a civilizing and cultural influence wherever it exists. The men engaged in these works are there because they love their task. The pay is small. Almost any little merchant in any little town, will show a larger net profit in his business, than the Forest Supervisor, who directs the activities of scores of men over thousands of square miles of forests, receives in salary. Many in the service are college men who have spent several years at school preparing for a career in forests.

Of course there are rigid rules which govern the conduct of these Federal employees. They cannot engage in activities or forensics for or against candidates or measures that are up for vote. But even without this rule, we do not believe that one per cent of the entire service would even be tempted into partisan politics. Their job is so big and so important to the commonwealth they just naturally are not interested in anything else. The writer has talked with a good many old time Nevada City folks, who have lived neighbors to Forest Service men over several decades, and has not found one yet, who could remember or think of any Forest Service man who had gotten out and hustled votes for anyone or anything.

But if the senator really knows of instances, where some zealous member of the Service had gotten out and worked for the election of his former chief to the state senate, as a good citizen the senator should turn him in, and not leave the entire staff of "fifty or sixty men" open to suspicion. It is not sporting, nor just, to accuse sixty men, when only one or two are guilty. We doubt seriously whether this scatter gun attack on the forest service has helped the senator's case.

We cite the following incident as comic relief to the rather drab business of running for office. It was not keyholing, please, because it happened that Senator Seawell met Tom Torpey right smack in the entrance to the Nugget office and their conversation could have been audible across the street. Politics was the topic, and the conversation ran along without arriving at any particular goal, until finally the senator asked: "What about my record?"

"Your record," boomed Torpey. "Your record, Yes, your record. Well, your record shows that you were ninety nine (pause for careful thought) —No. Your record shows that you were ninety nine and two-thirds percent for Jerry Seawell."

But let us not judge the senator too harshly. He is in the midst of a battle which is important—to him. Even the Psalmist (116-11th verse) confesses: "I said in my haste: 'All men are liars'." The senator was hasty. And, though the best defense is an attack—no doubt of it—in reaching out for a club, one should be careful not to grab instead, a boomarang.

LUDWIG NETZ WRITES PRAISE FOR ROOSEVELT

Editor of the Nugget.
Nevada City, Calif.
Dear Sir:

Would you please publish this in your paper.

I am going to stand up for our good President Roosevelt, as I think he is the best man that has ever been in the White House and the only one that ever has done anything for the working class.

You have been knocking this man long enough and I am sure that if that kind of propaganda is going to continue there are going to be less subscribers to your paper. It is hard to imagine why a little country editor should try to make fun of a man that has done so much for this country. Look at the mining boom for the western states and all the money spent by the Federal Government in this county alone. On top of that we are promised money to build hydraulic dams, which will bring hundreds of more millions to the northern part of this state.

Still you are knocking. If you knew what was best for you, you would turn around and give this great man credit for what he has done.

Your pet subject seems to be what you call "the spending orgy" of the government. They have spent thirteen billions in three years and helped the country to gain hundreds of billions. The first stroke of business he did in March 1933 in opening the banks all over the country was worth more than the thirteen billions in restoring confidence among the people of this country which Hoover, the biggest failure of the White House, had almost led to revolution.

The stock market today shows more than thirteen billion gain from what it was three years ago.

Everything may not have turned out the way it was meant by our government, but there never was a government that could control everything.

Now about the coming election I would like to say that although I don't know much, I believe that the knockers of this administration are just wasting their time and that Roosevelt will be re-elected next November.

Our good congressman, Harry L. Englebright should also be re-elected. I believe he is somewhat mistaken when he says that the New England states are for Landon. The Brotherhood of the Railroad Union with over two million members have voted to support Roosevelt. Add to that their wives and families and it may mean five million votes for Roosevelt. I believe too that the farmers of the Middle West that has received so much help from the government will remember Roosevelt at the November election. Down south they also realize the present administration's helpful hand.

The CCC boys all over the United States and their families surely are for Roosevelt. I think that all of the western states will roll up a bigger vote for him than ever.

We should all thank God for having such a man as Franklin Delano Roosevelt to lead us on to better times and prosperity.

LUDWIG NETZ.

ARTHUR W. HOGE PRAISES WORK OF ENGLEBRIGHT

Nevada City, Calif.
August 3, 1936.

Nevada City Nugget,
Nevada City.

Gentlemen:

I am glad to know that you are sponsoring my friend, Harry Englebright, a full 100 per cent, and, in this respect, I feel that you are doing good work because I am quite sure that the mining interests and the district as a whole will get far better results by keeping him in Congress than they would otherwise.

I have personally been in a position to know the tremendous amount of time and work that he has put in in regard to these hydraulic dams and I likewise know that he is the only representative in Congress that has taken it upon himself to fight the battle single handed and alone and he has certainly done an excellent job considering the conditions that he has had to labor under and no one knows this any better than the writer.

Sincerely yours,
ARTHUR W. HOGE.

MAN KNOCKS WOMAN DOWN ON STREET: KICKS HER, THEN DRIVES AWAY

A brutal spectacle on Pine street, in front of the Pied Piper appalled Sunday afternoon auto parties and pedestrians yesterday, when a big, heavy set man stopped his car, suddenly, jumped out and with a blow to the face knocked a woman down, who was walking with another man. After he had knocked her down he kicked her so hard, that, according to witnesses he fairly raised her body from the side-walk. Then he turned to his car, got in and drove away.

Those planning for the trip are Miss Edna Doolittle, Carl Murchie and John Kron. Those on the program were Carl Murchie, two solos, trombone and piano; Phil Joyal, harmonica selection; Melvin Clark and Phil Angove violin and mandolin duet; Tom Rickard, cornet solo.

PROTESTS PINE BEETLE NEGLECT

(By MRS. EDNA C. GOEDE)

Does it not seem strange that people will allow their beautiful pines —attacked by pine beetle disease— to de, little by little and make no effort to save them, or even prevent spreading to other trees!

There are single pines here and there, gradually dying, unheeded by the owners, and sad to look upon.

Half a dozen are on upper Boulder street, a large one on Prospect Hill (in the vicinity of lower Clay street) several in the county hospital grounds, and in other places in and about town.

It is well known that in the early stages, topping the tree will usually stop the disease. This was done with a big pine in Pioneer park.

If the owner cannot do this himself, it is not hard to find some one to top it, for a small sum.

If this has been neglected too long, and the tree is dying, why not cut it down, and save other trees from destruction.

By carefully burning the branches the main parts of the tree can be saved for fuel. Save our trees!

FISHES IN LAKE IN WILD KLAMATH FOREST

Mr. John Hubbard and daughter returned Sunday from a fishing trip in the Klamath national forest near Marble Mountain north of Eureka. They drove as far as they could, left the car, and walked two days carrying packs on their backs to a beautiful lake and a camp site. Fishing was fair. A big bear was seen near camp one day.

Mr. Hubbard read of this being one of the wildest areas in the west in a National Geographic magazine four or five months ago and decided to visit it. He said the country was mountainous, rugged and a wilderness with immense forests of big sugar and white pine trees. This is also the summer camp of Ex-President Herbert Hoover and he owns a small boat on the lake and a lodge nearby.

CROWDS ATTEND FOREST'S HOME COMING EVENT

Several hundred people attended the annual home coming at Forest Saturday and Sunday. Elton Carvin was master of ceremonies and a fine program of swimming and sports events had been arranged. The community swimming pool was dedicated and named Wallace is memory of the late Wallace Dorris, who lost his life in an auto accident near Roseville about two years ago. He had planned the pool and the community felt it fitting to honor the young man.

Among those noted from Nevada City were, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Coughlan, Cartoscelli brothers, Mr. Granholm; Mr. Thomas Arden and Mr. Biggs of Grass Valley, besides scores from Alleghany, San Juan, Camptonville, French Corral and Downieville.

HOOCH MADE THIS WORM TURN AND GRAB FISH

Fishing is still a keen topic of interest in this section and many fine catches have been made, even though fishermen have had long distances to travel and suffered many hardships.

Mr. Thomas White tells a good one, regarding a party that drove over rough roads, parked their cars, and finally walked several hours to reach the favorite spot. As the men walked they became tired, hot and thirsty, as it was found they had forgotten the water. They sat down to rest, one looked at the bait, found it was getting dry, another suggested whiskey be poured over it and this was done Upon reaching camp a worm was brought out, put on a hook, and in a twinkling there was a strike from the stream, and a terrific tug. In landing the fish it was found the worm had grabbed the 16 pound fish by the neck and all the fisherman did was to shake loose the worm The whiskey? Ask Mr. White.

Modern Road Built to Washington Would Add Much to County Wealth

In gathering data on resources in the Washington district east of Nevada City it has been discovered that a good road would yield a rich return to mines and lumber interests and also make one of the most beautiful summer camp sites. Big pine trees, fine water, and beautiful sites on the banks of the headwaters of the South Yuba River are ideal.

Several years ago the late Supervisor E. T. Worsley, of this district, made a survey to re-route the Washington road. But the plan fell through. His plan was to stare at the old Central House or Ski Course, cut to the left and come in under the hill near Marsh's saw mill, then up the river to Washington. This route would cut the present steep grade and deep winter snows.

Mr. Frank Mainhart of Nevada City owns a fine piece of mining ground on this route just beyond the Marsh mill site. Mr. Fred Johnson and son of Imperial Valley, are now developing a gravel property in this same section.

This road would also make it possible to cut lumber over a fine piece of virgin forest below the old Marsh saw mill site and still owned by the Marsh interests. There are several miles of fine timber to the east, also.

Nearer Washington Mr. R. E. Conrad formed the asbestos company about ten years ago, and put up a mill. Many tons of ore were milled, hauled out over the present steep grade to Nevada City and market. The property closed down but there remains a vast tonnage of this ore across the river and west of Washington.

Immense deposits of barite or paint ore of high grade is found in the lower shaft at the Spanish mine. At one time the late Fred Bradley figured on fluming this ore to Emigrant Gap to be shipped on the railroad and do away with the steep grade. At deeper levels in the shaft a good ledge of gold bearing ore was discovered and is still being mined. Concentrates hauled from the mines are more expensive when they have to brought up the present grade.

Another route has been talked over which would leave the present road a mile or two below the Junction house, turn east, until the Washington canyon was reached and then follow the stream into the town from the south on a good road.

The Red Ledge mine of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cole of Washington, which is above the steepest pitch in the present grade yielded many tons of rich chrome ore during the war. This ore is used to harden or temper steel .

This section of Nevada county has yielded millions in gold in the past and the mines continue to yield good returns. Large acreages of undeveloped mineral ground remain to be worked and with industrial ores and lumber it could again be brought back into activity with a better road. It is to the interest of Nevada City, the twin cities, and in fact, California, to make this natural wealth more easily obtainable.

TONY RORE INSTALLED FIRE CHIEF AT NOON

At 12 noon today, Mr. Tony Rore and Mr. Dudley of Nevada City took the oath of office as fire chief and assistant fire chief. Mr. Rore is a member of Nevada City Hose Company No. 1 while Mr. Dudley is of Pennsylvania Engine Company No. 2. The election of Mr. Rore to the office of chief and of Mr. Dudley as assistant is learned with pleasure by his fellow citizens.

FOREST SERVICE REPORTS 270,000 DEER IN STATE

U. S. Forest Rangers, acting as neutral observers in California's annual campaign against the 270,000 mule and black tail deer in the state, predict that a volunteer army of over 120,000 red shirts will take the field this year. If this forecast is correct some 900 tons of venison will be discussed in council at the dinner tables with the chiefs of staff red shirt husbands. For every rifleman who comes home with his bonus there will be about seven who will have to explain to the reparations committee how he will absorb the cost of his campaign out of his lunch money and why he didn't do better shooting.

Although deprived of the use of machine guns, airplanes, and gas, and forbidden to set fire to the territory occupied by the deer, an army of 119,600 hunters brought down 17,526 bucks in 1935. Forest rangers find that red shirts gained six per cent in numbers over the previous years and the kill was twelve per cent greater, showing that the boys are now better marksmen or the deer more careless.

As part of Forest Service game management studies, made to enable the red shirts to continue this annual campaign, rangers took notes on 8500 of the bucks killed for weight, condition, antler class ond locality. This will enable them to determine the geogrophical distribution, intensity of hunting, the average sized animal and the effectiveness of the 36 state and two federal game refuges covering over two million acres in the national forests of California.

In general the rangers found that there is a normal increase in the California deer herd estimated now at 126,000 black tail and 145,000 mule deer in spite of a reduction in black tail in certain parts of the state caused by illegal hunting. Predatory animals are responsible for more than double the number of deer killed by hunters.

Two "Liar" Incidents

(Contributed)

Americans, according to the British, are supposed to lack the poise of Englishmen. Let's look at the record, as the saying goes. Last week a couple of incidents, one here and one in London, occurred concerning the word "liar." Father Coughlin apologized publicly for having referred to the President with that blunt term. Undoubtedly he thought Americans would consider such the proper course, or he wouldn't have done it. In the British house of commons last week one member called Home Secretary Sir John Simon a liar. But they didn't stop there. Another shouted, "That lying scoundrel! That dirty little rat!" Which is not exactly what you could call poise. And in Britain they don't apologize.

Maybe It Is Skywriting

(Contributed)

That new Peltier's comet appearing in the sky to the northeast has brought forth the usual run of wisecracks from the wags. One suggested that it is the only thing left untaxed. Another remarked that it must be skywriting undertaken by one of the presidential candidates, judging from the claims made for them. Actually the visitation is quite an important event. It is the first comet to be visible to the naked eye since the Pons-Winnecke comet appeared in 1927. All the comet talk recalls the time in 1910 when Haley's was blazing across the sky and astronomers calculated that the earth would pass through its tail. There was some worry because a deadly gas was known to be in that tail. The world did pass through it, however, and nothing seemed to happen.

Civil War In Spain

(Contributed)

Civil war in Spain may have drawn the attention of the world off the real powder kegs of Europe and Asia for a time, but there will be no world-wide repercussions of consequence as there would be if revolution broke out in Germany or Italy.

And even within Spain the ultimate significance of what has happened may not become clear for decades. The side that has won shall have done so only temporarily, and the pendulum will probably swing back and forth between the two extremes of fascism and communism again and perhaps again after that.

In government, in social and economic structure, Spain is a century behind the rest of the world. Theoretically, a republic was set up by them when Alfonso abdicated in 1931, but the old feudal tradition of monarchy, army, and landed aristocracy remained deep-rooted. There is no powerful middle class in Spain, no balance wheel between the new extremists inclucated with the new Marxist doctrines and the old extremists of the monarcial tradition.

The chances for Spain ever to become a true republic are quite slim. In any case, nothing that happens within that country can very soon have an appreciable effect on the rest of the world.

HYDRAULIC MEN HEAR ASSURANCE ARE APPROVED

According to Ross F. Taylor, a mining engineer of Downieville, the assurances of the Hydraulic Mining Association that were sent to Washington have been approved. According to Taylor the part of the code that was accepted was paragraph 13 which states that the operators will be financially responsible, and able to operate the properties to the satisfaction of the government.

This paragraph was drawn up by the resolutions committee composed of W. G. Allen of Smartsville, F. H. Harvey of Galt, and Leroy Palmer of San Francisco. Taylor expressed his belief that the dams would probably be constructed in the near future.

GOOD SERVICE COSTS NO MORE

A modern establishment—a trained, intelligent and courteous personnel — distinctive motor equipment and other evidences of progress and prosperity are NOT an indication that funeral service charges will be high. A successful concern can be built only by serving honestly and well, at prices that are fair and reasonable.

WEEKLY COMMENT BY Christian Andersen

Eclipsing all other events in this whirling world of ours is the Olympiad now being held in Berlin. Radio announcers are so expert, that except for actual movement of the people, one can visualize this grand spectacle, the lighting of the Olympic fire brought in relays from Marathon, Greece was most impressive and to those who have thrilled to the historical account of the original, this was perhaps the high light of the whole Olympiad. The Olympic games become really the groundwork for world peace, in this years competition at Berlin there are 53 countries represented and the spirit of sportsmanship pervades the assemblage of the hundreds of thousands spectators.

This comradship is not easily destroyed and is the basis for public opinion out of which war or peace grows and in this sense the Olympiad becomes more than a competition between the crack athletes of the participating countries.

This section of the Bear Republic is no exception in regard to rich tradition from which tourist influx can be built. The spirit has been with many. "We are getting along fine by ourselves why don't people stay out?" but progress is not based on selfishness nor for that matter on selfeffacement. If progress were entirely commercial then progress would be a dull stodgy sort of thing, but fortunately with progress comes advantage, culture, fuller life, for progress is the child of inspiration and inspiration is the machine which makes us click.

Years ago when traveling on the Santa Fe railroad where the Harvey lunch rooms cater to public hunger I saw a traveling show troupe send their flunkey for a pot of coffee, the clerk who waited on him gave the purchaser one cup of coffee and the charge was ten cents From then on the whole troupe got off the train for lunch and by a managed confusion they actually only paid for only a small part of the food consumed, it was a clear case of retaliation and cost the Harvey lunch rooms many dollars.

The State Fair Amateur contests conducted every Saturday night in the Strand Teatre at Grass Valley are gaining impetus, the contests were close last Saturday. William Perry who is studying with Marshall Geiselman of Nevada City was the acclaimed finalist.

think about out government. For, thank God, this country is still a Democracy. Witness the above lette.

It is very easy for an editor, or any one in business to swim with the current, and we are well aware that a large majority in this county is registered Democratic. Pulling against the stream is often a difficult and thankless job. And when our correspondent mentions loss of subscriptions, he touches a newspoper owner in his most vulnerable spot.

The real reason for opposition to the present administration can be summed up thusly: We fear that if President Roosevelt is re-elected he will consider it a mandate to continue spending. He will be helped in so deciding by the pressure of some 800,000 federal employes already on the payroll. He will consider a victory a warrant to continue his futile efforts and wasteful system to put 12,000,000, still unemployed, to work.

Regarding the price of gold. What President Roosevelt did, was to raise the American price to the world price. Prior to doing so, he put an embargo on export of newly mined gold. Otherwise, gold, like any commodity, would have sought the highest market. It was a wise thing to do. Mr. Netz would have done the same thing, if he had been in the same position.

Long after the writer of the above letter lies sleeping under one of his own fine granite monuments, his children and grandchildren will be working to pay the debts contracted by President Roosevelt. And don't forget that our taxes now are 35 cents out of every dollar we earn.

MANY THANKS

To our friends and neighbors, Forester Wm. Sharp and his able assistants, for so quickly controlling the fire which started on our place late Sunday afternoon, on the Downieville highway.

PROF. BOLTON WRITES EPOCHAL BOOK ON WEST

BERKELEY, Aug. 3.—The writing of history may have its victories no less renowned than those recorded in history itself. One of these conquests appears to have been achieved by Professor Herbert Eugene Bolton, chairman of the department of history in the University of California, who has compressed thirty years of world wide research into a volume, "Rim of Christendom," just off the press of the Macmillan Company, New York.

Professor Bolton has utilized the life of a single man, a great missionary, explorer, cartographer, ranch man and cattle king, as a brand to illumine the culture history of a large part of the Western Hemisphere in its pioneer stages. This man, Eusebio Francisco Kino, a member of the Society of Jesus, was born in Italy, educated in Germany and participated in the very first expedition to ever reach the Pacific Ocean by crossing the Peninsula.

For a quarter of a century Father Kino was the outstanding figure on the Sonora-Arizona-California frontier, clearing the way for great Christian Mission enterprises from which were to radiate the civilization and culture of half a continent. A score of present day towns and cities began their history as Mission pueblos founded by him or directly under his influence. Over a vast area in the southwest and adjacent to Mexico, cattle ranching and the introduction of European cereals owe to him their beginnings. Father Kino's maps of western North America made him famous in Europe and were copied for nearly a century after his death.

Professor Bolton literally followed the trail of Father Kino from his birthplace in the Italian Alps to the scenes of his last labors, foraging priceless records along the way, some of them long hidden from the sight of man.

"By water on ocean liner and Gulf steamer, by land on horseback, on mule-back, by team, by automobile, and by air in a monoplane, I have retraced nearly all his endless trails and identified most of his campsites and water holes—all this in an endeavor to see Kino's world as Kino saw it."

The answer, "Rim of Christendom," is Father Kino's world brought to life again and illuminating all that was to follow it.

SURPLUS FRUIT SAVED BY SALE OF BY-PRODUCTS

BERKELEY, Aug. 3.—Proof that the surplus of California fruits and vegetables can be reduced through by-products is offered by the fact that the yearly commercial pack of tomato juice is now equal to all of the wine consumed in the United States in the same period. In other words, this pack now amounts to approximately 40,000,000 gallons annually, whereas back in 1929 there was practically no pack at all.

These facts are offered by Professor W. V. Cruess of the Fruit Products laboratory of the University of California, in a recent article in the Fruit Products Journal, New York.

"Properly handled, prune juice has similar possibilities," Professor Cruess said. "Compared with the volume and food value of the basic products such as milk, bread, rice and potatoes, our total output of fruits is small and utilization of the present fruit surpluses in the form of food would disturb but very little the consumption of the staple products. In fact, by sharpening the apetite the use of more fruit might conceivably increase the consumption of staples."

The use of prune juice "nightcaps," the processing of peaches and apricots, into beverages, the utilization of real fruit juices in carbonated form, and the making of such items as loganberry, orange, prune, and even rhubarb wines, are all worthy of consideration and possible of attainment in acceptable form, Professor Cruess said. A very good Sauterne type orange wine has been made, he said.

In foods the use of more raisin bread and more raisins in the bread should be easy of attainment. Raisin buns, cookies and cakes are other possibilities. Prune bread promised to be popular for a time, but was not merchandised as vigorously as it should have been. Fig bread and apples delivered fresh peeled and sliced to pie makers, are other items.

Last, but not least, the meal could be topped off with avocado, muscat raisin, persimmon, apricot or pear ice cream, all of which are palatable and appetizing.

Aftermath

After the Fourth was over,
After the day was done,
Gone to the Never Never Land
With the roar of a parting gun,
I sat in a grateful silence
Reviewing its pride and noise
And counting the losses suffered
By neighboring girls and boys.

Alta had ruined a school dress,
Baybell had singed her curls,
Playing with dangerous kickshaws
Never intended for girls;
Peter had scorched his fingers,
Freddie had lost a tooth,
Lashes and eyebrows had vanished
From the face of the baby Ruth.

Down where the grass was dryest,
Peter had started a fire,
Endangering homes and garages,
Provoking their owner's ire;
"What shall we do with that youngster?"
Shouted his uncle Ted
"Wait till I catch him," yelled daddy,
"I'll spank him and put him to bed!"

After the Fourth was over,
What did the girls and boys
Care for the wounds and the losses?
Remembered alone were the joys;
Ruin of clothing and tresses,
Burns from a hot toy gun,
These counted naught as they chorused,
"Gee, didn't we have fun!"

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

The San Juan Ridge Improvement League has postponed its big dance in Twamley Memorial Hall, which was to have been given next Saturday night, August 8, until the following Saturday night, August 15.
